Los Angeles Unified School District (LAUSD)
MEDICAL DIRECTOR OF EMPLOYEE HEALTH SERVICES
$224,613- $249,999/annually
Apply at www.lausdjobs.org
Open Date: 08/28/2020

We are LAUSD. We are at the forefront of innovation in public schools, with the serious work of tailoring the learning environment to better serve our community. Here, you will have the opportunity to exercise your potential in the business of education. Our contributions here impact our number one customers, the 600,000 plus K-12 students of Los Angeles Unified School District.

THE POSITION: The District is seeking a Medical Director of Employee Health Services to direct the Employee Health Services Unit of the Human Resources Division and coordinate employee health programs and mandates throughout the District.

This position will provide leadership to the District for Public Health Emergency Preparedness and Response. The Medical Director will serve as the physician of record for all COVID-19 test orders and results, including issuing "blanket" test orders covering a large group of individuals as well as provide ongoing oversight.

Currently, the District is recruiting for a full-time A-Basis (12 months) position. This position is assigned to the downtown Los Angeles, central LAUSD office at 333 South Beaudry Ave., Los Angeles, CA 90017.

THE IDEAL CANDIDATE: The ideal candidate for this job opportunity will have an understanding of fundamental principles and occupational practices in the field of employee health services, as well as a familiarity with pertinent employment laws. Candidate will be responsible for signing blanket orders, covering a large group of individuals as well as providing ongoing oversight. S/he must possess experience or ability to manage public health crises.

S/he will possess empathy to approach employees with genuine care, compassion and have the ability to communicate courteously with people from different socio-economic and ethnic backgrounds. S/he will have commitment to public health and passion for making a difference.

In addition, this individual will have knowledge of psychiatric disorders, as indicated in the DSM-5, and have some experience dealing with patients who suffer with mental disorders.

Moreover, this person will have a track record of performing administrative work within the medical field, and the ability to plan, organize, prioritize, and manage a heavy workload. S/he will be amenable to working on a small three person staff group and work independently. Additionally, s/he will demonstrate the capability and initiative to learn a new enterprise systems, and other technology to successfully perform the daily functions of their job.

As important as this individual’s professional experience is, their ability to cultivate relationships and work effectively with both internal and external stakeholders will be essential to his/her success. The ideal person for the job will possess ability to serve as a liaison to support and interrelate departments. S/he will have experience developing and maintaining effective working relationships with key stakeholders, and will be an effective communicator both orally and in writing.

For more information and additional important details, please see the attached job bulletin and visit www.lausdjobs.org to apply